

Protecting Elders from Holiday Scams: Carolyn Reinach Wolf in Psychology Today

FEATURED ATTORNEY

Carolyn Reinach Wolf

Executive Partner, Emeritus

Abrams Fensterman's Carolyn Reinach Wolf, Executive Partner and founder of our Mental Health Law practice, was recently published in Psychology Today with a timely article addressing how to protect elders from scams during the holiday season.

In her piece, Wolf explores the growing prevalence of fraud targeting older adults, highlighting the psychological toll these scams can take on victims and their families. She outlines the key warning signs of common schemes, such as phishing emails, fraudulent charity requests, and impersonation scams, while emphasizing the importance of legal safeguards and vigilant community action.

As a leading mental health attorney, Wolf offers practical strategies to prevent exploitation, including clear communication with aging loved ones, educating them about financial safety. She also stresses the critical role of caregivers and legal professionals in creating a network of support to protect vulnerable individuals during this high-risk season.

Click here to read the full article in Psychology Today.